

JEMIMA PATCH-TAYLOR

Grounding (States of Flow)

Grounding (States of Flow) touches on the rhythms of nature and the cyclic dispositions of the universe and how this can relate to human consciousness. It provides glimpses of moments of time and stillness and reflection. It expresses the diversity and flow of emotions and states of being and how, like bodies of water and cloudy skies, these are ever changing. Grounding (States of Flow) consists of familiar and beautiful landscapes of the Northern Rivers, comprising 32 unstretched landscape paintings in oils and other larger oil paintings. The exhibition blurs the line between the physical body and the essence of the landscape exploring the idea of erasing the separation between 'human' and 'spirit'. Grounding (States of Flow) is complemented by a sound scape with recordings of fairy-wrens as well as other bird and creek sounds from the Pearce's Creek area, along with guitar and an ambient synthesiser.

Artist Bio

Coming from a family of artists, Jemima has always felt at home in her practice. She has strong family ties and connections to the environment of the Northern Rivers. Jemima's work is driven not just by the visible, tangible landscape and the spiritual and visceral connection to it. Impressionist and deeply feminine, her paintings are powerful documents of unspoken attachment to the world around us. Her love of landscape and desire to capture the energetic aura of specific places and objects have become the subject matter for her work.
